Vision impacts your employees' whole health and productivity

Regular eye exams provide a unique opportunity to help detect and diagnose serious health conditions like high blood pressure, heart disease, and diabetes. Discovering these conditions in the early stages can help to maintain your employees' health and productivity as well as reduce health care costs.

<Anthem> health plans now include a comprehensive eye exam at no extra cost as part of our plan to bridge gaps in care and help provide our members with care that supports their whole health.

Eyes may not get the care they should

8 million

Americans have vision impairment that could be helped with proper corrective lenses.¹

- More than half of adult Americans did not seek eye care because of lack of awareness or cost; which are often made worse by not having adequate health insurance.¹
- Adults with vision impairment often have lower rates of workforce participation and productivity and higher rates of depression and anxiety.²
